Leadership positions at work: Illinois Association of Nurse Anesthetists Student Representative, 2016-2017

Additional Information: "I am a California native who moved to Seattle after finishing nursing school at Georgetown University. I worked at the University of Washington Medical Center (UWMC) as a nurse before leaving for graduate school at Rush University. There, I was the student representative to the Illinois Association of Nurse Anesthetists. This was an eye-opening experience that taught me about the importance in getting involved with my state association. In 2017, I graduated with my DNP and moved back to Seattle where I took a position at UWMC as a CRNA in 2019. I joined the WANA Public Relations Committee and have increased outreach through social media platforms. As a recent graduate, I have a unique perspective and new ideas. I would appreciate your vote for the WANA Board of Directors."

Leadership positions at work: Student Clinical Preceptor, 2018-Present, Providence Pavilion for Women & Children in

Everett, WA; Clinical Preceptor for doctoral level Gonzaga SRNAs in a busy high risk obstetrics hospital. Clinical Perioperative Coordinator & Anesthesia Provider, 2018; Traveled to Guatemala with a volunteer organization called Heal the Children to perform pediatric ENT surgeries. For this experience, I helped to set up the operating system, provided preoperative, intraoperative, and recovery room care, and helped perform over sixty anesthetics in a week. (continued)

Additional Information: “I realize that I may not yet have as much experience with AANA and WANA committees, but I make up for that in effort and dedication. In my life, I have made two decisions that I would consider the wisest choices I ever made. One was becoming a CRNA, and the other was deciding to move west to advance my career and skills in an independent practice environment. I moved to Washington almost two years ago, and this has been one of the best changes in my career and life in general. I have found a place where I feel settled in my career and home. And, I also feel ready to dedicate time towards networking, making advancements and improvements in my profession, and continuing education in the field of anesthesia.”
